
Embracing Change in My Journey

By:

As I woke up that hot summer day to get ready for school.
I was so nervous, what uniform to choose.
The first day of fifth grade I just couldn't wait.
My mom yelled, "Hurry up Journey you don't want to be late".

Now all dressed and ready to walk out the door.
I was excited for what fifth grade had in store.
Suddenly I was nervous what could this be.
I almost forgot I'm in GT.

See I'm a GT student which means some of my classes are way more advanced.
Don't get me wrong I appreciate the chance
But the thought of doing work that is above the fifth grade is the reason I'm a little afraid.

More reading and writing more equations to solve
Man, I am just not ready to evolve.
Levels in I-ready became longer to complete.
Papers that I write must be more than one sheet.

My mom and teachers encouraged me to do more,
They are the reason I met my I-ready score.
So I will embrace these changes with new scores to meet
I will take on the challenge because my name is Journey.
